The Sunday Afternoons Shape Up

Except for a few "complications" the Carmel Arts Commission has its Forest Theater Sunday Afternoons project scheduled, partly programmed, and $100 in its pockets from the city council to pay for such items as piano moving.

There will be no admission charge for the hour of "variety" entertainment and the arts and crafts demonstrations, though a receptacle for voluntary contributions will be spotted somewhere on the premises.

"We want Carmel people to enjoy their own theater," Richard Lofton and Glenn Kearns pointed out at the regular Arts Commission meeting yesterday. "All the entertainment will be contributed."

The commission could use money for additional repairs of the Forest Theater, so contributions will be welcomed, though not solicited, "a quarter, a dollar or nothing, according to how Carmel people feel about the project and how much they feel they can afford."

Another point the commissioners emphasized: "This is for Carmel; it is not planned as a tourist attraction."

Official opening has been set for June 18. June 11, planned opening date was graciously handed over to the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra which asked to put on a "pops" concert on that afternoon, charging $1.00 for the benefit of its scholarship fund.

The programs will consist of three 20-minute presentations. Mrs. Fritz Wurzmann, chairman, said that she has not got in touch with all the prospective performers, but she has in mind a folk dancing group, instrumentalists, singers, a ballet group, and actors to give skits or readings.

Richard Lofton reported that the exhibits and demonstrations, two

Seniors To Present Truman Capote's The Grass Harp

Carmel High School's traditional senior class play will be The Grass Harp, a comedy fantasy by Truman Capote.

The dates of the performances are Friday, May 26 and Saturday, May 27.

Under the able direction of Mr. Robert Wilson the cast of ten boys and eight girls is succeeding in turning written script into reality.

The first act of The Grass Harp commences in a humorous mood which is gradually replaced by a more serene sanctity when the common impulses of the world drive three people to look for another place to live.

This is the first time this play has been presented on the Monterey Peninsula so that the students have an opportunity to introduce some rather unique elements—both in characterization and setting.

For 40-odd years a kindergarten teacher.

That is Mrs. Laurie Hough's past. And she still has a lot of future. At present she teaches at Cowan's School up the Valley.

In private schools, public schools, settlement houses, among rich and poor, her teaching experience covers more than half a dozen states in all sections of this country and in every social strata.

Hers is the story of four decades devoted to helping young children grow into adjusted, secure, singing, rhyming, learning human beings with the beginnings of character and always a joy for playing.

From Laurie Hough's small but capable hands thousands of tiny graduates have received their Doctorate of Rhymes, only to return year after year to visit their first teacher.

"Take the first six years of any child's life and you have all the ingredients that will come out in the adult man or woman," she maintains. "We want them to be good, happy and constructive qualities."

To look at her you'd never in this world guess that it was in 1916, as Laurie Hanson, she got her A. B. from Northwestern University in Chicago. At a time when it wasn't fashionable for women to study to work, she left home to study music at Milwaukee Donner College, already knowing what she wanted to become. Again she went off to Chicago, this time to put in three years at Chicago Teachers College, to become one of the now famous Gertrude House Girls. Their motto To Learn Through Doing! came easily to Laurie. She was the daughter of the Andrew Hansons, immigrants from Norway, who had helped in the early 19th century to settle the virgin forests of Wisconsin. It was in the former Indian territory of Chippewa Falls that Laurie was born, at the turn of the centry.

Perhaps it is the memory of her own childhood spent in the beautiful Wisconsin backwoods that helps her form the alchemy of building character and philosophy

The city council yesterday afternoon passed a resolution supporting Assemblyman Bradley's county supervisorial redistricting bill; sent copies with requests for support to Assemblyman Alan Pattee and Senator Fred Farr, also to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors with a chiding remark about this body's lack of enthusiasm for redistricting the most impossible distribution of democratic representation of any county in California.

PUBLIC MEETING ON MISSION RANCH REZONING

The Mission Ranch Corporation applied this week to the County planning commissioners for re-zoning for their non conforming property in the Mission Tract.

Corum Jackson, chairman of the Carmel Advisory Committee to the county planning commission has called a public meeting for May 22, 7:30 o'clock, River School, so the advisory committee can be assisted in its recommendation to the planning commission by an expression of public opinion.

Kids, Not Our Own, Source Of Library Bulge

Harrison Memorial Library trustees and the city council, in a joint meeting yesterday afternoon at city hall, tried to find some means of solving problems caused by expanding use of the library by both adults and juveniles.

They discussed a branch juvenile library in a proposed city civic center, situated either on city-owned property at Junipero and Fourth Streets or Sunset School; asking the Carmel Unified School District to contribute library space or funds; expanding the present library; and fees for library use from students residing outside the city limits.

No solutions were reached, but members of the library board stated that the best solution, from their standpoint, would be to expand with bond issue funds the existing library, thus covering the present garden frontage on Ocean Avenue. This met with protests from city councilmen who deplored any loss of open space in the city.

Library board chairman, Donald Craig, referred to a report prepared by Mrs. Ruth Galvin Thornburg, head librarian, to indicate the increased use of the library since 1950 when library facilities were expanded by a bond issue. The report shows that in the past ten years annual adult circulation has increased by 62,873 volumes; juvenile by 32,413 books. The increase in adult patrons is 209 since 1950; juvenile patrons, 303.

The report also points out that Carmel's population is 4,398 persons; the number of library patrons is 4,458. One reason for this discrepancy, Mrs. Thornburg stated, is that every student in high school, whether a resident of the city or not, is given a free library card. Other non-residents are

Santa Barbara Co. Passes Ordinance Barring Totegotes

Santa Barbara County Board of Supervisors passed an ordinance this week which bars totegotes from all trails in their county, Fred Eisler, Sierra Club representative in Santa Barbara, informed Carmel City Councilman Francis Whitaker yesterday.

Whitaker represents the conservationists of this area in their efforts to preserve the National Forest Trails from mechanized invasion. The Monterey County Board of Supervisors will be asked to pass a similar ordinance, Whitaker said yesterday.

The Santa Barbara ordinance will simplify enforcement of a totegote ban in the Los Padres National Forest in that county. At a regional meeting of National Forest officials in San Francisco last month, Los Padres foresters expressed their willingness to conservationists to bar totegotes from the National Forest trails . . . they are already barred from the Wild Areas and from National Forest trails during the fire season . . . but asked that the counties pass ordinances so as to place violators under complete jurisdiction of local courts.

The totegote, a motor scooter built especially for trail travel, is becoming popular with some hunters, four of whom, Carmel men, were arrested several months ago by forest rangers for operating a motor vehicle in the Ventana Wilderness Area. They were fined and put on probation.

The totegote presents a problem of noise, trail damage, and fire hazard, and many hunters and fishermen who enjoy the quiet of the forest trails resent them as much as do the hikers.

Hartnell Chorus With Symphony In Season Finale

Final concert in the 1960-61 season by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra will be presented Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium.

Major work on the program is the rarely-heard Vesperae Solennes de Confessore by Mozart. Featured with the 85-piece orchestra will be the Hartnell Community Chorus and a quartet of vocal soloists; soprano Norma Jean Scott of Pacific Grove, contralto Carol Bruhn of Watsonville, tenor Larry J. Swanson, also of Watsonville, and bass-baritone John Farr of Carmel.

Stripped Cypress, Trapped Kitten Rescued By Police

Last night Carmel police rescued a trapped kitten twice. Sunday they saved a cypress tree at the beach that was being stripped of branches to build a barbecue fire.

At 9:00 o'clock last night, Margaret Young, who lives on Mission Street near Fourth Avenue, complained that a kitten was causing a disturbance under her house. Sergeant Bob Fischer found the small cat caught between the double wall of a partition and rescued it from its predicament.

At 2:00 o'cock this morning, police again received a call about the kitten from the same address. Sergeant Fischer responded again and this time found the animal caught behind a refrigerator motor. He extricated the kitten and took it to his home to prevent it from causing further trouble.

Sunday, police issued a warrant for the arrest of Thomas J. Perry of San Francisco who was allegedly observed tearing limbs off a cypress three at the beach to build a barbecue fire. The warrant was sent to San Francisco and the police had no report on the matter this morning except, if guilty, Mr. Perry is liable for a fine to the extent of $52.

SAN CARLOS TOPS LITTLE LEAGUE RACE

League Standings

	Won	Lost
San Carlos	3	0
Pilot Market	2	1
Boys' Town	2	1
Sport Shop	2	1
Wilder & Jones	0	3
Turner & McEldowney	0	3

Jack Miller's San Carlos Realty nine is setting a fast pace in the Carmel Little League as the teams near the end of the second week's play. The Realtors hold decisions over Pilot, Sport Shop, and Wilder & Jones and are eagerly awaiting a showdown battle with Boys' Town tomorrow night. Three teams are deadlocked for second place with 2-1 records and any of the three appears capable of giving the leader a severe challenge for the top spot.

In compiling its 3-0 record, San Carlos has the unique distinction of blanking all three of its opponents. The realtors whitewashed Pilot, 4 to 0; shut out Sport Shop 7 to 0; goosegged Wilder & Jones, 6 to 0. Larry Little pitched the win over Pilot; Steve King did the whitewash job on Sport Shop; and Jim Sparolini collaborated with Little to blank Wilder & Jones. Sparolini and Steve King swung the big bats for San Carlos in its win over Sport Shop, Sparolini stroking 3-for-3 and King going 2-for-2. Mel Grimes, Gary Kearns, and Ben Artellan were the only Sports to hit safely in this one. The realtors' big gun in the win over W&J was catcher Tony Aiolo who hit a single and a grand slam home-run to drive in all the San Carlos tallies.

Newt Goodrich's Boys' Town gang disposed of Turner & McEldowney, 7 to 0, last Thursday evening, but was jolted 4 to 0, by Clayton Neill's Sport Shop in Monday night's play. John Campbell hurled a nifty one-hitter to beat T&M as Gerald Pullen hit a home-run, a double, and single to lead the bat parade. Randy Newman gave up only 3 hits in pitching the Sports to the win over the clothiers. Louis Shone, Sport Shop first-sacker, drove in 3 runs for the winners as he connected for a home-run and a single. Mark Zanides also helped the Sports in the batting department, stroking a double and single in three trips to the plate.

Pilot Market bounced back after dropping the opener to San Carlos by clipping Wilder & Jones, 4 to 2, and beating T&M, 14 to 4. Ronnie Parsons and Scott Lemons hurled the grocers to the win over Wilder & Jones. Ronnie Farrell and Terry Mosolf teaming up to pitch the win over Wilder & Jones. Ronnie Parsons was the leading Pilot hitter in both games, hitting 2-for-3 against T&M and going 1-for-2 against the plumbers.

Tonight's Little League action matches Turner & McEldowney with Wilder & Jones and one of them is going to get out of the dark cellar. Friday evening, it's Boys' Town and San Carlos in the crucial tilt of the week. Monday's schedule matches Pilot and San Carlos with Boys' Town and Wilder & Jones crossing bats on Tuesday. All Little League games start at 6:00 o'clock.

CARMEL SWIMMERS PLACE FOURTH IN CCAL MEET

Coach Jim Agan's Carmel High swim team collected 37 points in the CCAL Meet at Salinas last Saturday but had to settle for fourth place in the league meet as Salinas, Monterey, and Watsonville showed too much depth for the hard-working Padre tankmen. Salinas was crowned the league champion as the Cowboy squad stroked its way to 94 points to top Monterey's 75 and Watsonville's 45. Watsonville amassed 81 points to win the lightweight meet as runner-up Monterey garnered 49, North Salinas 40, and Carmel 34.

Carmel's varsity was shut out in the varsity blue-ribbon department, but all the performers bettered their season's records. Al Nishimura, Carmel's lightweight swim sensation, copped two first places in the limited division, winhing the 100 backstroke and 100 individual medley in record-breaking times.

Point-makers for the Padre varsity were John Hackbarth, Art Horning, Tom Farrell, and David Rosenkranz. Padre lightweights breaking into the score column were Jim Holt, Nishimura, and Maynard Petersen.

PADRE NINE OUTLASTS GILROY, 15 TO 13

Spotting the visiting Gilroy High horsehiders eight runs in the first inning, Carmel High's varsity crew fought back to take a 12-8 lead at the end of the third heat and hung on to clip the Mustangs, 15 to 13, in a tussle which was definitely not a pitcher's battle. Coach Art Baxter's hit-happy Mustangs climbed on Chris Wilkin, Forrest Cornwall, and Jim Brown for eight markers in the opening inning and apparently had the game well in hand even before the Padres had their chance at bat. However, the plucky Carmel gang closed the gap to 8-2 at the end of the first frame, and came with a rush in the second canto to go in front, 12 to 8.

Kent Olsen, Carmel's fleet center-fielder, put on a fine offensive show for the Padres, scoring 5 runs in five trips to the plate and hitting a perfect 2-for-2. Bob Little, Lindy Mahrt, and Mike Cole also took a liking to the Gilroy pitching, each hitting long doubles to push across some scores for the Padres. Big blow for the Mustangs was a three-run homer by first-sacker Gil Hernandez. This four-master brought Gilroy into a 12-12 tie with the Padres going into the bottom of the fourth. Carmel got the go-ahead run in the bottom of the fifth as Olsen stroked a double and Bud Cunningham drove him across with a single. The Padres added insurance markers in the bottom of the sixth when Olsen singled, Cunningham walked, and Lindy Mahrt scored them both with a hard-hit double to left. Both teams collected nine hits over the seven-inning route, but the Padres took good advantage of 13 free passes issued by the Gilroy pitching staff.

Next league action for the Padres is slated for 5:00 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when the San Lorenzo Cougars visit Carmel for a double-header. The varsity teams will cross bats on the regular diamond while the junior-varsities will swing away on the football field. Carmel clipped the Cougars in the first round game, but Coach Richard's lads are higher in the standings than the Padres. This will be the first meeting between the jayvee teams which have identical 2-2 records for the league season.

Dr. Zoe Johnston

Dr. Zoe Johnston, a pioneer in the field of cancer therapy, died on Sunday in Glenhaven, Lake County, following a period of ill health. She formerly made her home in Carmel and was a past president and life member of the Carmel Woman's Club.

Dr. Johnston was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. She graduated from the University of Pittsburgh Medical School and was one of the first women physicians in the United States to specialize in radiology.

Very early in her medical career she became actively associated with the American Cancer Society, giving talks to lay groups on cancer, its diagnosis and treatment. Eventually she devoted her entire practice to patients with cancer.

Her pioneer work in the fields of radiology and cancer therapy earned national recognition. Dr. Johnston was the first woman to be president of the Allegheny Medical Society which had 2,000 members at the time. She also served as president of the Pennsylvania State Radiological Society, the American Radium Society and the American Women's Medical Association; and on the national board of the American Cancer Society. Dr. Johnston was also awarded a plaque and citation from the State of Pennsylvania for her outstanding work in medicine in her native state. She was a member of the Zonta Club and the American Association of University Women in Pittsburgh. In 1951 she was president of the Carmel Woman's Club.

Dr. Johnston moved to Carmel in 1946 when she retired after practicing medicine for 30 years. She and her husband, Charles M. Johnston, a Pittsburgh attorney, purchased a home at Carmelo and Seventh. Four years ago they moved from Carmel to Lake County.

Funeral services were held in the Community Methodist Church in Clear Lake Oaks.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Dr. Johnston may do so in the form of donations to the American Cancer Society, Box 1028, Monterey.

The Sunday Theater Afternoons Shape Up

of which are to be presented each Sunday afternoon on the Forest Theatre grounds for the audience during intermission of the performance are lined up:

June 18, Monterey Peninsula Archers will exhibit equipment and demonstrate arrow making; and Patricia Hall will demonstrate silk screen printing. On June 25, Doris Ormsby will demonstrate linoleum block printing on fabric, and Frank Bell, lapidary work.

July 2, Blanche Tolmie will show how she makes puppets and Phyllis Calley, the operation of the potter's wheel. July 9: Eve Bell, portraits in ceramics, and Rosa del Conte, weaving.

Lofton also reported that he had obtained estimates of the cost of preparing the council chamber to display suitably the city's gift paintings: $800 for finishing the walls with mahogany plywood. "This includes crown moulding, base moulding, picture moulding, nails, glue and cost of labor," he said.

Painting costs: $700 for spray coat of off white for ceiling and wash coat of same white, rubbed, for the walls. A majority of the commission thought it would look better and cost a lot less to paint only the walls and leave the ceiling in its natural redwood state. Glenn Kearns estimated that this would cut the paint job cost in half.

But before they went further into the project, the commission wanted to know how the council felt about it. They delegated Lofton to talk informally and individually with council members and "see how they feel about it."

At the opening of the meeting Mayor Frank Putnam observed a pleasant Carmel custom, popping in personally with new member Fred Rider's "appointment" in a white envelope, saying, how "delighted the official family is to have you with us. We'd like to stay with you but we have another circus in the next room," referring to the joint library-city council meeting (see page one story) which pre-empted the council chambers and relegated the art commission to the board room.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

As a part of our Hiller collection on world affairs, we are buying books issued by the Macmillan Company in their Common Sense Series, which have three basic qualifications for publication. The authors assume no special knowledge of the subject on the part of their readers, they write in a manner immediately intelligible to any man or woman, and they are as objective as possible. These qualifications make the series of prime importance to any public library, and actually the books should be of value to young people as well as to adults. We have four of them ready for circulation and all of the titles begin the same way, The Common Sense About . . . and so on. The four we now have deal with China, The Arab World, Russia, and India. All are important to us at this time. Read all of the books.

A western novel based upon the legend of the Apache Kid is by Clay Fisher and is entitled Nino. We were undecided for a little as to whether or not this was really a western, but we decided it was so we put our little sign for westerns on the back of the spine. It is a tiny horse and rider on a label. You remember that since the vogue for science fiction seems to have waned we are now buying a few westerns. Clay Fisher writes well, as well as westerns.

The demand for books by Miss Read holds up and the new one is here. It is called Fresh from the Country. We catalog under Miss Read's name which is Dora Jessie Saint. Remember if you want to check for her other titles in our catalogue. But if you forget that, too, we have a "see card" under the name Miss Read. Helpful we try to be.

Vanity Fair folded in 1936, I believe, after 22 years of charming everybody. Now Cleveland Amory has edited a book filled with items from the magazine and the book is called Vanity Fair, which is as it should be. This large book is full of fascinating bits and snippets, with photographs which are so interesting that you might well borrow the book just to look at them, and never read a single article, or story, or poem, or witty jibs, but you won't. It is a two week book and you will need every bit of it to do justice to Vanity Fair.

More good new non-fiction we have and ten new novels. You must come in to get them because they cannot come to you.

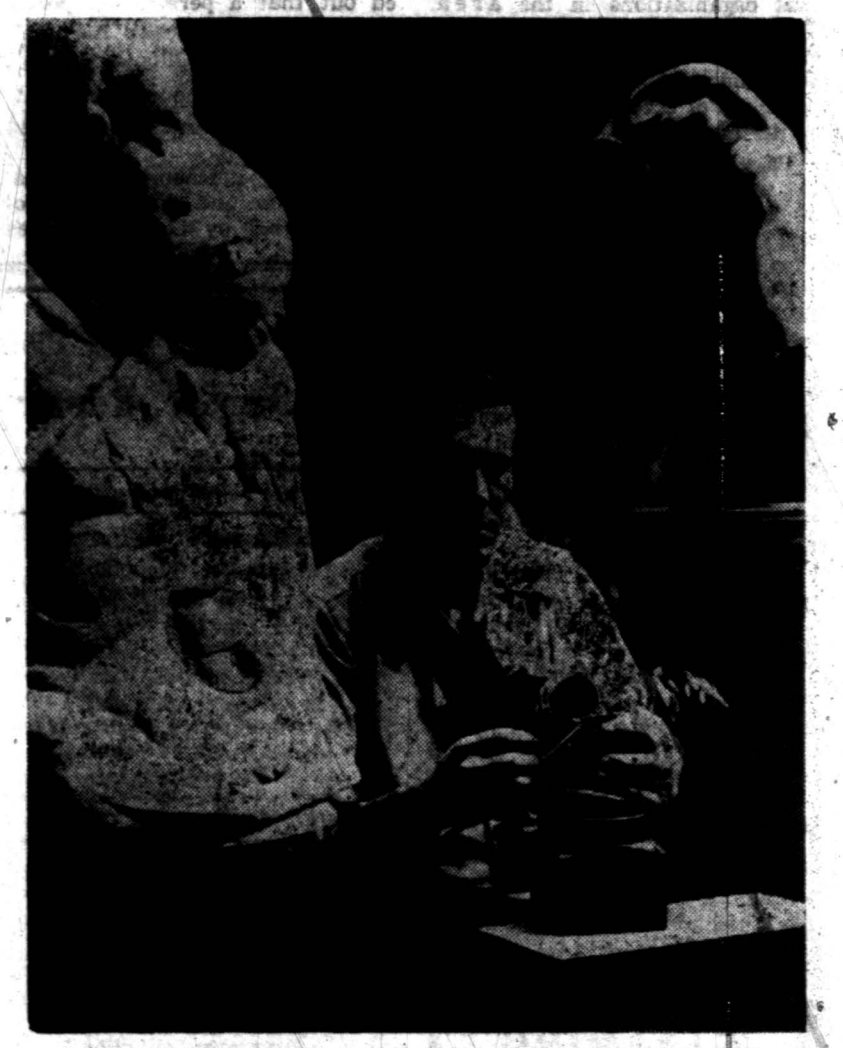
Moras To Visit Hong Kong

Mr. and Mrs. Jo Mora Jr. of Pebble Beach are on a tour of the Orient aboard the SS President Hoover. They will visit Honolulu, Yokohama, and Manila on their way to Hong Kong. Returning they will stop again in Japan and the Hawaiian Islands.



Three years ago, upon the urging of his friends, artist Alexander Weygers of Carmel Valley, introduced his new work with the camera in Carmel, at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre. These friends proved correct in the belief that the public would receive his Artography (art-in-photography) with enthusiasm. Since the unveiling of these unique close-ups of nature, public interest in his beautiful color slide pictures has spread with increasing demand for the lecture-showings throughout the West in many cities, from San Francisco to San Diego and in Nevada and Arizona, as well as periodical engagements on the Monterey Peninsula.

Many have urged a third anniversary of that Carmel premiere titled Beauty in your own Backyard. On May 17 the highlights of this first show will return to the Circle Theater, recalling the magic of mushrooms, the glitter of dew on rattle snake grass, the beauty in a simple weed.

In addition, this series will include the cream of all the Artographs shown during the past three years. A carefully selected review thus becomes the essence of all that Weygers has produced with his camera.

There will be a matinee show at 3:00 o'clock and an evening show at 8:00 o'clock.

It is suggested that as many as possible attend the matinee because so often in the past late-comers missed the evening show because of a sellout.

Advance sale of tickets at the Browse Around, Carmel.

The Circle Theatre's "Sleeping Prince" Proves To Be Wide-Awake Comedy

The Sleeping Prince, a romantic comedy of little substance but considerable charm, appeared last weekend at the Golden Bough Circle in a well-cast, well-dressed production directed by Frederick Rider, and audiences at the opening performances seemed to find its every prospect pleasing.

Terence Rattigan's gift to the Queen (his play was conceived in honor of the coronation of Elizabeth II) is a once-upon-a-timely trifle having to do with a comely showgirl from Milwaukee who becomes embroiled in the affairs of state of the kingdom of Carpathia, via a brief dalliance with its prince-regent, during 1911 coronation festivities in London. Various domestic and political problems of Carpathia's monarchy are mixed up in the operetta-type plot, which serves mostly as gilt frame for a royal flush of diverting characters and conversations. While considerably beneath playwright Rattigan's best efforts (e.g., The Winslow Boy, Separate Tables), The Sleeping Prince adds up to a gay and glossy lightweight entertainment.

The cast happily reunites Rosamond Zammit and Errol Allan, the "Eliza" and "Higgins" of the Circle's sprightly production of Pygmalion. As the ingenuous chorine-cum-consort, Miss Zammit romps through the play with gee-whiz exuberance and fully developed comic style. Mr. Allan does handsomely as Carpathia's unsettled chief of state: he has a talent for conveying a full vocabulary of emotion simply by twiddling his eyebrows, and here additionally copes with huge mouthfuls of German profanity. Gertrude Chappel brightens the scene with a deliciously mannered performance as the imperious and somewhat zany Grand Duchess who imperially indulges her royal husband's infidelities.

Most improbable bit of casting disguises ebullient Anne McElroy Fry as a biscuity, beaten-down lady-in-waiting, and though the part involves little more than snuffles and whimpers, she makes every timorous entrance noteworthy. Derek Napier Lawford (the "Pickering" of Pygmalion) is impeccably "U" in manner and appearance as Northbrook, the British charge d'affaires, though his delivery tends to be marred by mumbles. Eddie Burns is excellent as the regent's rebellious teenaged son and Carpathia's future king, combining boyish enthusiasm with regal poise. Young Ruth Fry demonstrates the family flair for comedy in her stage debut as an obnoxious princess. Eleanor Van Laer is good as a gossipy Archduchess, and Helen Nessel appears briefly as a Baroness. Stylish and efficient contributions to the cast are Gene Lawrence and Ridley Brown as the major-domo and footman.

Mr. Rider has directed his excellent and attractive cast with brisk authority, and Nick Zanides backs up their efforts with a polished production. The single set, representing the royal suite of the Carpathian Legation, is suitably plushy and cleverly arranged, and the cast is elegantly turned out by Mildred Cushing and a whole corps of costume assistants. (Only exception to the show's sartorial stylishness is the unflattering gown worn by Miss Zammit.) Paul Fiske is in charge of lights, Dorothy Axtaman, props, Ramsey Scott, stage manager; they are assisted by a host of helpers, ranging from an offstage violinist to a language coach, and all, to judge from the finished product, seem to have done their jobs well.

The Sleeping Prince will continue its run on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at 8:30 o'clock.

United Churchwomen Have May Program In New Fort Ord Chapel

The excitingly attractive new host chapel at Fort Ord drew a large attendance of church women to the May Fellowship program of the Monterey Peninsula United Church Women last Friday, representing almost a score of religious organizations in the area. Theme of the program for the day was Our Responsibility—to the community. Mrs. Robert Aversano, president of U.C.W., was in charge of the meeting.

Panel discussion by official leaders in community problems at at 10:30, with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray as moderator, included Mrs. Cleo Berkun of the Family Service Agency on the Broken Family; Dr. Charles Rodewall, psychiatrist, on the Mentally Ill; Mrs. Mary Clark of the Committee on Alcoholism; Charles Simpson, Chief of the Monterey Police Department, on the Juvenile Delinquent; and the Reverend Robert Clark of the Monterey Methodist Church with the more hopeful topic, the Well and Happy.

All the panelists treated the problems from a constructive standpoint, to build up right attitudes in place of the destructive spirit in the individual at fault. Sympathy, understanding, assistance in adjustment to society by parents and other adults toward youth and grown-ups who have become society's problems were emphasized by everyone. It was pointed out that a person has pretty definitely acquired his life attitude by the time he is eight years old, hence the importance of attention to early environment and training.

Following luncheon in the assembly room and afternoon devotional used by U.C.W. services throughout the United States, an inspiring address was given by Dr. Ralph M. Johnson, president of the Berkeley Baptist Divinity School.

Music On The Peninsula

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

The fifth Musica Viva Sunday concert of the Institute of Theatre Arts at the Steinbeck Theatre was given before a considerable audience who listened with sincere interest to an interesting program of Beethoven, Brahms, Hindemith and Milhaud, and a Chopin brilliantly added as encore by Timothy Thompson whose piano recital was reviewed last week.

Besides Thompson the ensemble included Fei Pang Chang, violinist, Allan Johnson, clarinetist, and Roger Torry, trumpet, all of whom showed development and promise as young artists. Particularly in the Hindemith Sonata for trumpet and piano, an unusual combination, Torry accomplished feeling and modulated phrasing in a way one hardly looks for from trumpets, and received a just ovation.

Fei Pang Chang played in both the Beethoven Sonata for violin and piano and the Milhaud Suite for violin, clarinet and piano, all of which, as well as the Brahms Sonata for Clarinet and piano, were cleverly and musicianly given. Thompson officiated at the keyboard with some of his brilliant pianism. All were recalled. Next Sunday's program presents Baruch Klein, cellist and Robert Sheldon, pianist.

More Young Artists in the Spring Opera Season in San Francisco which was attended Friday: A well cast group exhibited in Puccini's La Boheme a spontaneity and enthusiasm of youth that particularly fitted the character of the opera. It was the most satisfactory portrayal of it that I can remember anywhere. It also made history inasmuch as the first Rodolfo was sung by a negro and the whole conducted by Henry Lewis, a negro of Los Angeles. George Shirley's winning tenor at the Met brought forth demonstrations from the full audience, and in the scenes with Lee Lenora as Mimi, the emotional acting of both was restrained and convincing. Stage management had made an unusually live scene and riot of color at the inn. Actions and choruses, including the Boys' Chorus, were excellent. The Conductor would have done better to have kept the orchestra down in spots, but his directing was full of the life of the music. Spring Opera is now to the credit of one of the oldest opera cities of America and it is hoped it will continue.

At the Saturday Symphony Concert under Conductor Jorda, Milhaud, Schumann and Saint-Saens' works were given. The rare Schumann Concertstueck for Four Horns and Orchestra presented Ross Talor, Jeremy Merrill, Herman Dorfman and James Callahan of the orchestra personnel. The human and sympathetic tone of English Horns is always appealing, but although the players of it were seated in front, the rest of the orchestra seemed somewhat overpowering. The Saint-Saens Symphony in C Minor and the Milhaud Suite Provencales with its tuneful movements were particularly interesting. Ludwig Altman was at the organ in the latter in his always scholarly playing for which he received plenty of applause with Jorda. Back stage Altman reminded me he would be in Carmel at the Wayfarer organ as part of the Bach Festival!

Music history will also be made by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra's last of this season's concerts next week when it gives the almost never performed Mozart work of Vesperae solennes de confessore that includes the Chorus from Hartnell College. Works by Haydn, Prokofieff and Rossini comprise the rest of the program, in Salinas and in Carmel on May 15.

T. Williamson

Thames R. Williamson, author of many books, died on Friday evening in his home at San Luis Road and San Pedro Lane. He had been in poor health for some time but his death was unexpected.

Mr. Williamson wrote under the names of Waldo Fleming, S. S. Smith and Gregory Trent as well as his own name. He was the author of 50 books including novels, juvenile books, textbooks and travel books, also articles in national magazines. Two of his books, Woods Colt and Hunky, received wide recognition. Five of his books were book club selections. He was also a staff writer for motion picture studios before retiring to live in Carmel four years ago.

Mr. Williamson was born in Genesee, Idaho, on February 7, 1894. He was a graduate of Harvard University and a former university instructor. He and his wife, Sarah H. Williamson, moved to California 20 years ago and had lived in Carmel for the past four years.

Besides his wife, Mr. Williamson is survived by two daughters, Ann Williamson of Berkeley and Dr. Barbara Irving of New Jersey; a son, Thames R. Williamson Jr. of Palo Alto; two brothers, Ed Williamson and Charles Williamson, both living in Portland, Oregon; a sister, Edith Robertson of Spokane, Washington; and two grandchildren.

Private funeral services were held on Monday at the Dorney and Farlinger Funeral Chapel with Chaplain John Wright (USA ret.) officiating.

Bob And Victor See Rarotonga

A postcard from Carmelite Bob O'Brien, dated April 4, reports that his voyage on the SS Monterey to Australia and New Zealand has just included Rarotonga, capital of the Cook Islands. Bob encloses a copy of both the Cook Island News and The Polynesian, Matson Line daily bulletin. The latter carries the statement that Victor Ruskell, brother of Carmel's Speirs Ruskell, won the Men's Singles Table Tennis Tournament. Victor visited Carmel before he sailed on the Monterey to settle in New Zealand. Bob O'Brien will be back in Carmel within weeks.

Culture Vulture May Events

Culture Vulture members will meet on Wednesday, 10:00 o'clock in the morning, at the Old Customs House to visit this historic monument then tour Fisherman's Wharf and Pacific House.

Members are also, during May, reminded to visit the Marjorie Allen show at the Galerie de Tours in Carmel and see Babes in Arms, the musical being presented by the Monterey Peninsula College drama department.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leonard Williams cut their wedding cake at the reception following their marriage on Saturday afternoon in All Saints' Episcopal Church. Mrs. Williams is the former Lucinda Lloyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd of Carmel. Mr. Williams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Williams of Carmel Valley.

The Reverend David Hill performed the double ring ceremony at 5:30 o'clock before the white-canopied altar on which stood brass bowls filled with sprays of white gladioli and greenery. White satin bows decorated the pews occupied by members of the bride and bridegroom's families. Guests were escorted to their seats while Robert Forbes played Bach organ music at the request of the bride.

She was given in marriage by her father. Her princess style slipper satin gown was worn also by her older sister, Jennefer, at her marriage to Nathaniel Baylis in the same church almost ten years ago. During the interval the ivory shade of the dress deepened to soft gold. The long-sleeved bodice of the gown had a high-necked net yoke above a band of ruching at the shoulder line, then was fitted through the waist to the hipline where the full skirt fell from deep scallops over a hooped underskirt to flow in back into a cathedral train. A cap of fragile pearl sprays framed her face and held her long ivory veil in place. She carried a cascade bouquet of ivory gladioli, her favorite flowers, arranged with ivory satin leaves.

Her maid of honor was her younger sister, Mardi Lloyd, who wore a lilac chiffon dress with a fitted midriff and full short skirt. Soft draping framed the square neck of the bodice and extended over cap sleeves to fall in back in floating panels. She had a wreath of tiny ivy leaves in her hair and carried a spray bouquet of pink shading to ivory gladioli interspersed with lilac brocade ribbon. Her shoes matched her dress.

The other attendants' mist green dresses were similar in style to the maid of honor's gown. They also wore ivy in their hair and carried similar bouquets arranged with mist green ribbon. They were the bride's older sister, Mrs. Nathaniel Baylis of Menlo Park; the bridegroom's sister, Kate Williams from Sacramento State College; Nancy Lofton from the University of California, a friend of the bride's since early childhood; and Lynn Heringer, a classmate of the bride at the University of California at Davis.

Michael Stanghellini, a Phi Delta Theta fraternity brother of the bridegroom at the University of California at Davis, was best man. Ushers were the bride's brother, Francis P. "Skip" Lloyd of San Francisco and three UCD fraternity brothers of the bridegroom, Dale Dawson, Dwight Davenport and Steve Clifford.

Mrs. Lloyd attended her daughter's marriage in a Paris pink pure silk sheath dress, a hat of moss green and pink velvet leaves, green shoes and a pink gladioli corsage.

Mrs. Williams, the bridegroom's mother, wore a midnight blue pure silk sheath and harmonizing shoes, a white gladioli corsage, white ribbon hat and white accessories.

The reception following the marriage ceremony was held at the Carmel Meadows home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Criley, third generation representatives of a friendship between the Lloyd and Criley families. The bridal couple received beside the living room fireplace before a floral arrangement containing white gladioli placed on the piano. Pink gladioli and maidenhair fern surrounded the wedding cake standing between antique silver candlesticks on the dining room table covered by an old Irish ivory linen cloth with insets of handmade lace.

Following the toast to the bride by the best man, Phi Delta Theta fraternity brothers sang to the bride and groom. Guests were members of the bride and bridegroom's families and friends of the bridal couple, including a large group of University of California at Davis students.

When the bridal couple left for a honeymoon at White Rock Club in Carmel Valley, the bride wore an emerald green pure silk sheath dress, black shoes and bag, and a brown and black tweed coat bound with black braid.

The bride attended Bay, Sunset and Carmel High School and was a sophomore at the University of California at Davis until February.

Her husband is a graduate of Carmelo and Monterey High School and studied at Monterey Peninsula College before entering the University of California at Davis three years ago. He received his bachelor of science degree in February and is now associated with Asgrow Seed Company.

Cindy and Johnny will live in Carmel Valley in the house in which Johnny's parents started married life. Cindy is the granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Lloyd who established a summer home in Carmel in 1911 and lived here permanently following Dr. Lloyd's retirement from the faculty of McGill University in Montreal, Canada.

Johnny is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams of Monterey and the late Mr. and Mrs. Will Martin of Carmel Valley. His great-grandfather, John Martin, pioneered the Mission Ranch over a hundred years ago and another great-grandfather, William Hatton, also was a Carmel Valley pioneer. The home he built still stands at the Valley entrance.

Word comes from Santa Barbara of the wedding there April 25 of Carmel High School graduate Mansfield H. Turney, Jr., and the former Christa Jaeckisch of Kimmelsbach, Germany.

Mr. Blee Back From Conference

James Blee, former Sunset School teacher who established Carmel district's outdoor education camping program for sixth graders in 1950, attended the Annual State Membership Conference of the Association for Outdoor Education last weekend in Scott's Valley.

Mr. Blee reports that the camp program which began at Big Sur with 35 children from Sunset School has spread now to include Monterey, Santa Clara and Santa Cruz Counties and a program for 1500 children each year.

Mr. Blee was particularly interested that one of his pupils during his first year of teaching was a principal speaker at the conference. He is Dr. Henry S. Molino, superintendent of the Sunnyvale School District. Dr. Molino spoke on The Moral and Spiritual Values Developed by the Outdoor Education Program.

Mr. Blee was a member of the program committee for the conference and co-ordinator for trail groups. He is now on the faculty of Robert Louis Stevenson School. In 1958, Mr. Blee resigned from the Sunset faculty to become director of the Southern California Audubon Center. He retired from this position to return here where his wife is a teacher at Woods School.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Unchanging beauty is a theme of the Lesson-Sermon "Soul and Body" to be read at all Christian Science churches Sunday.

Included in the Bible selections will be these verses from Psalm 90: "Let thy work appear unto thy servants, and thy glory unto their children. And let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us: and establish thou the work of our hands upon us; yea, the work of our hands establish thou it."

One of the correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (pp. 247, 248): "The recipe for beauty is to have less illusion and more Soul, to retreat from the belief of pain or pleasure in the body into the unchanging calm and glorious freedom of spiritual harmony."

Comings' Guests Return Home

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mueller of Hamburg, Germany, have been visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Comings, for two and a half weeks. The Muellers had not seen their daughter, Dorette, for ten years and met their son-in-law for the first time on the Carmel visit.

Enchanted by Carmel, the Muellers explored much of the countryside, on foot, to the amazement of their daughter who reports her father is 80 years old. Among the walks the Muellers took were one from Hatton Fields to Pebble Beach and back and another up the Valley to the Comings' saw mill and back to Hatton Fields. They were impressed with the friendliness of Carmel people and were happy about their purchase of a little yellow house on Guadalupe Street.

During the visit, the Comings' gave a party in honor of the Muellers. Among the guests were several persons who had known Mr. and Mrs. Mueller in Germany and now live on the Peninsula. Present at the affair were Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Titus, Miss Felicitas Titus, Mrs. Lydia Punkt, her daughter, Lydia, Mrs. Julia Weinberg, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Comings and their daughters, Kathleen, Rosemary and Carolyn. The Comings girls and Lydia Punkt entertained the guests with a piano recital and German songs and stories they had learned from Mrs. Richard Comings. Mrs. Sherman Comings and Mrs. Weinberg also took part in the musical part of the entertainment.

Mr. Mueller is an attorney in Hamburg and could not stay longer than two and a half weeks because he had to consult with clients in New York and wanted to visit Los Angeles, San Francisco, Santa Barbara and Chicago during his two months' vacation from his law practice. Both he and Mrs. Mueller hope that the Comings will visit them soon in Germany, however.

"My parents did pretty well with their school English," Mrs. Comings remarks.

Laurie Hough Keeps Young Teaching Young

of joy of living into childish minds.

To watch Laurie dramatize for the children some nursery rhyme, you'll marvel at the nimbleness, the flexibility of that compact 5-foot figure. When she calls the children around her and sings in her low voice:

"Little Duckie Daddie . . . wading in a puddle . . ." and goes down on her haunches with those children to "gobble . . . gobble . . . quack . . . quack . . ." you'll see only another child . . . a little grey . . . but face and eyes aglow with the happiness of imaginative play at its best.

Wasn't it Steinmetz, the great electrical wizard, who made no bones about his preference for the company of children to that of other great scientists? His explanation, "In the pure heart of the child only you find true wonderment."

Mrs. Hough doesn't quote Steinmetz, but she does believe that teaching kindergarten is the most wonderful work in the world for her. That's why she goes on and on, when most teachers retire.

"It always comes as a jolt," she will tell you "when a new teacher applying for a job at any one of the schools asks first 'What is the salary?' because I always asked myself first: 'Do these children need me?' And they usually did."

During her years at Teachers College in Chicago she learned the great satisfaction of answering that need when she did her practice teaching at none other than Jane Addams Hull House, at the Henry Booth House and at Gads Hill Settlements.

Her first "paying" job was Fairfield, Iowa. Here she taught coal miners' children on one side of town and white-collared young clients on the other. She saw, for the first time, race integration working well, even among the upper economic class. Her salary? All of $60 a month. She was "very happy!" she recalls proudly.

Her next job during the war years took her to Houston, Texas, to become head worker of a settlement house for Mexican children. Only 22 years old and with three words of Spanish at her command, she managed to instill in children and parents alike a confidence that brought them to her for help in emergencies at any hour of day or night. She still remembers vividly the night she was awakened by a frantic Mexican father anticipating a baby. She dragged out a youthful doctor for his first case, only to help him deliver his first and her first, baby!

Duluth, Minnesota, St. Paul, a year in her home town, Chippewa Falls, back to Dallas at the Sophie Newton School, more study at Chicago University in child psychology, even a stint as Dean's Assistant at Chicago Teachers College, before opening her own private school in Thomasville, Georgia.

In 1927 she "retired" to marry Charles "Tod" Hough, manager of the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago. They were summering in Cape Cod, when a long distance appeal for help came from Carmel's late Grace Ann Douglass and with Tod's consent she flew to teach kindergarten at Forest Hill School.

Fifteen years ago this spring she saw Carmel for the first time and with the exception of one year at Navy Nursery School, she has been working and handing out her Doctorate of Rhymes diplomas ever since.

And with her in the Cowan's School, as registrar and athletic coach is her husband Tod. A graduate of University of Michigan, Tod now serves as Governor of Michigan Monterey Peninsula Club, is vice president of the 8th District for University of Michigan Alumni Association.

And no one watches with more pride his wife at her work than does Tod Hough. It is any wonder that Laurie intends to go on and on toward the half century mark as kindergarten teacher?

Kids, Not Our Own, Source Of Carmel Library Bulge

charged an annual fee of $7.00.

In a comparative list of statistics, 1959-60, of 14 California libraries also included in Mrs. Thornburg's report, Carmel is last in population, third in adult circulation, ninth in juvenile circulation, fourth in total circulation, eighth in the number of volumes added, ninth in income, fourth in the number of hours the library is open to the public. Also shown was the fact that Carmel juvenile circulation last year exceeded Monterey's by 3,268 books while population figures reveal that Monterey has 18,220 more residents.

What Carmel library needs Mr. Craig stated is "A place for students to work." He was referring to the number of students who use the library for study and reference and research purposes. He suggested that if the city developed the present corporation yard on Junipero Street as a civic center, space for a branch juvenile library might be provided at this site, adjacent to the Youth Center, although research material would be much cheaper to provide in one central library. If there were to be no civic center, he continued, then a bond issue would be necessary to expand the present library facilities in spite of the Adney property legacy to the library and the as yet unknown amount of the legacy bequeathed to the library by Austin James. He also stated that the Adney legacy was left for juvenile library facilities only; the present library site was restricted solely to library use.

Mr. Craig wanted to know what the city was planning in respect to building a civic center.

Councilman Francis Whitaker suggested that the library be operated on a school district basis. He said that student patrons from the fringe areas of Carmel were a burden to the library, maintained by city taxpayers.

Councilman Gunnar Norberg assented. He said that expected increase in property valuation revenue for the school district amounted to $1.00 per $100 assessment to Carmel residents; $2.00 for Valley and fringe residents. Meanwhile Carmel taxpayers paid 30 cents per $100 evaluation to maintain the library for non-resident students. He suggested a meeting between the school board, library board and city council to see if some means of help for this additional obligation might be found.

"Parents must help carry this inequitable burden," he said and later added that "the school district, with more population, should be as concerned as the city in in maintaining a library, or give us funds."

To the suggestion that the school district keep the high school library open in the evenings for student use, Mr. Craig replied that parents were reluctant to have their children walk along unlighted streets with no police protection to the high school in the evening; the high school library was used as a community meeting place; the school district superintendent had shown "no spark of interest" in making school property available but had stated, "When citizens speak, we'll do something."

Councilman Eben Whittlesey concurred that the library was also a responsibility of the school district. Mayor Putnam enquired of Mr. Norberg if setting a fee for non-resident students using the library, were acceptable to him. Mr. Norberg replied "Yes, if the sum is adequate."

Mr. Whitaker liked the idea of a fee, too.

Mr. Chitwood objected to any school board participation in library administration. He wanted the public to decide by an election to expand the library or establish a juvenile branch. Mr. Craig thought school board participation would be "fraught with all sorts of difficulties", and cited complications when the junior high at the mouth of the Valley is in operation. Mayor Frank Putnam wanted a branch library at Sunset School, maybe on a loan basis from the school district until a civic center were established at the Sunset site.

Both library board members and the council were worried about necessary duplication of reference material if a branch library were established.

Mayor Putnam closed the meeting by referring the library problem to the council's committee on administration for further study, and report. "We must do something," he said.
